The goal of the presented diploma thesis was to identify the barriers and opportunities in the international trade between India and the Czech Republic. The defined main goal of the diploma thesis can be considered as fulfilled.

The theoretical part is clearly elaborated, the chapters logically follow one another. The theoretical part of the work is an excellent starting point for the practical part. The ratio of the practical and theoretical part of the work is absolutely optimal. In this diploma thesis I miss the overall summary - which barriers and opportunities in the international trade of the Czech Republic with India currently exist. In the questions about this diploma thesis I will focus on this issue. This work meets the requirements for a diploma thesis, and therefore I recommend it for defence.
